

Privacy Policy

Our Commitment: this privacy policy applies Prudhoe Caribbean, the trading name for Turks & Caicos Islands business licence licensee Tim Prudhoe

This privacy policy describes how Prudhoe Caribbean collects, uses, shares, and secures personal data or personal information, such as your name, address, telephone number, and email address. Prudhoe Caribbean collects this data through direct contact with clients, potential clients, related parties, candidates, or otherwise-interested individuals. The firm is committed to complying with all global privacy data requirements in connection with the use of personal data received. Disclosures Kobre & Kim will take all reasonable steps necessary to ensure that any personal data transferred will be treated securely and in accordance with this privacy policy. In order to provide you with requested services or information, we may need to transfer your personal data to firm locations and/or service providers based in various countries. This does not diminish your rights. Your personal data will not normally be disclosed to third parties, except in connection with the fulfillment of our obligations to you and other express purposes as permitted by you. This includes, without limitation, disclosures authorized through the terms of any retainer we may have with you. We will not sell, resell, lease, or license your personal data to any third parties. However, we may, if required for the purpose(s) for which your personal data was collected and processed, share it with our service providers, for the specific scope of their provision of services on our behalf to help with our business activities. These companies are authorized to use your personal data only as necessary to provide these services to us. These services may include marketing communications, conducting research and analysis, providing cloud computing infrastructure, and/or providing investigatory services in connection with a legal matter. We reserve the right to transfer any information we have about you in the event that we sell or transfer all or a portion of our business or assets. Should such a sale or transfer occur, we will use reasonable efforts to try to require that the transferee use the personal data you have provided through the website in a manner that is consistent with this privacy policy. In certain situations, Prudhoe Caribbean may be required to disclose personal data in response to lawful requests by public authorities, including those made in accordance with national security or law enforcement requirements. This further includes circumstances in which we believe, in good faith, that disclosure is necessary to protect our rights, safeguard your safety or the safety of others, investigate fraud, or respond to requests made by administrative agencies.

Data Collection and Use

We may collect the following personal information directly from you: Contact information, such as name, email address, mailing address, or phone number; Information about your business, such as company name, company size, or business type; Demographic information, such as age, education, or gender; Billing information, such as credit card number and tax information; Financial information, such as bank or brokerage account numbers and types of investments; and/or Identification information, such as Social Security number, passport number, or driver's license number. When you provide personal data to Prudhoe Caribbean, we store and use this information for purposes including but not limited to administering and maintaining our relationship with you in connection with legal services; conflicts checks; billing; responses to general inquiries; and the distribution of marketing materials, including publications, events, bulletins, etc.

Privacy Policy The amount and type of information gathered is dependent on the nature and scope of an individual's affiliation with the firm. Prudhoe Caribbean may request certain additional information from persons interested in and pursuing employment opportunities. Data collected from potential employees is subject to the same privacy rights and security protections outlined in the provisions of this privacy policy. We may receive information about you from other sources, including publicly available databases or third parties from whom we have purchased data. We use this data to supplement the information we already have about you for research and analysis purposes, in order to perform the legal services for which we have been engaged. We may also use this information to distribute materials to you that may be of interest with respect to your business activities or relationship with the firm. If you provide us with the personal data of others, or if others provide us with your personal data, we will only use that data for the specific reason for which it was provided to us and in compliance with this privacy policy. Examples of the types of personal data that may be obtained from public databases or third parties include your name, title, company, and personal or company activities that are either made public or accessible through third-party resources. We may use the personal data obtained through the means specified above to: Provide updates or information pertinent to your business activity; Provide information in connection with the legal services that you request; Conduct conflicts checks; Respond to your questions and concerns; Transmit marketing communications; Process employment opportunities; and/or Process financial information, as required or requested. Personal data is only collected and processed to the extent necessary for the purposes described above. Prudhoe Caribbean updates and corrects data on a regular basis. We may retain your personal data for as long as needed to provide you with services requested, comply with our legal obligations, resolve disputes, and enforce our agreements.

Security The security of your personal data is important to us. We follow generally accepted standards to protect the information submitted to us, both during transmission and once it is received. Prudhoe Caribbean has policies and technical measures in place designed to protect your personal data against unauthorized access, accidental loss, and improper use and disclosure. If you have any questions about the security of your personal information, you may contact us at privacypolicy@prudhoecaribbean.com. Prudhoe Caribbean will respond to any inquiries regarding whether we hold any of your personal data. You may access, correct, or request the deletion of your personal data by contacting us at privacypolicy@prudhoecaribbean.com. In certain circumstances, we may retain your personal data in order to continue providing necessary services or to comply with legal requirements. We will respond to these requests within a reasonable timeframe.

Website Privacy

The Prudhoe Caribbean website and its web pages are operated by Prudhoe Caribbean.

Passive Collection

As is true of most websites, this website gathers certain information automatically. This information may include internet protocol (IP) addresses, browser type, internet service provider (ISP), referring/exit pages, the files viewed on our website (e.g., HTML pages and graphics), operating system, date/time stamp, and/or clickstream data to analyze trends in the aggregate and administer the website.

Tracking Technologies Our website uses cookies and similar technologies. Additionally, we utilize third-party services, including Google Analytics and LinkedIn, which also set cookies. These features allow us to analyze trends and track movement to better understand how individual users experience our website as a whole. You can control or block the use of cookies at the individual browser level. However, disabling or deleting cookies may limit your use of certain features or functions on our website.

Advertising and Social Networking Services We partner with third parties that use tracking technology to track advertising across various sites external to Kobre & Kim LLP. Our third party partners may use cookies or similar technologies in order to provide you advertising based upon your browsing activities and interests. If you wish to opt out of interest-based advertising, click here. If you are located in the European Union click here. Please note you will continue to receive generic ads. Our website includes social media features, such as Facebook, Twitter, YouTube and LinkedIn sharing buttons as well as other social media integrations. These features may collect your IP address, which page you are visiting on our site, and may set a cookie to enable the feature to function properly. Social media features and widgets are either hosted by a third party or hosted directly on our Site. In some instances, such as sharing content with your network, you must login to your social media account to do so. Your interactions with these features are governed by the privacy policy of the company providing it. Links to Other Websites This privacy policy only relates to this website. Any links from this website to other websites are provided merely for your convenience and do not imply endorsement by us of the content or provider. Security We follow generally accepted standards to protect the personal information submitted to us, both during transmission and once it is received. However, the internet is not completely secure and, even though we will do our best to protect your personal data, the transmission of this information to us is done so at your own risk. If you have any questions about the security of your personal data, you can contact us at privacypolicy@kobrekim.com. Email Preferences You may sign up to receive communications from us, including legal updates, notices of new legal services, and details of upcoming events. If you would like to discontinue receiving these communications, you may update your email preferences by using the "Unsubscribe" link found in emails we send to you or by contacting us at unsubscribe@prudhoecaribbean.com.

For more information about the firm, please contact:

Tim Prudhoe
Regent Village East, Suite A210
Providenciales
Turks and Caicos Islands
+1 649 231 8896

tim@prudhoecaribbean.com

Tim Prudhoe is "a tenacious and effective advocate" and someone who "leaves no stone unturned." - Chambers